WHERE LIFE GROWS

A vibrant fern on the windowsill, its fronds reaching towards the sunlight. A shelf showcases succulents and cascading foliage, all nestled in breathing pots, creating a dynamic visual symphony. The aroma of fresh basil, thyme, and mint wafts through the kitchen air, adding a touch of freshness to the culinary creations. The home is filled with the subtle fragrance of blooming flowers and the earthy aroma of soil, creating an immersive experience that transcends the ordinary.

You nurture your green life when you adorn your home with a plenitude of plant companions; living sculptures that breathe life into every corner. As you interact with your leafy friends, a sense of calmness envelops you. The act of caring for these plants becomes a daily ritual, a mindful practice that encourages growth not only in the greenery but also within yourself. The impact is profound. The presence of nature fosters a serene ambience, promoting mental well-being and inspiring creativity.

Since 1942, when our founder, Victor Berg, sought to bring life and colour to war-depressed lives in Copenhagen, we have continued to fulfil his dream and inspire a harmonious relationship between humans and plants, believing that nurturing living things enhances both physical and mental spaces. Bergs Potter invites you to dream, decorate, and grow! A beautiful journey where life blossoms in every leaf and every moment.

KØBENHAVNER

Steffen Berg found inspiration for his Københavner Pot design in historic pottery originally made for the Royal Fredensborg Palace of Denmark in 1860. Today, our potters craft our version of the pot in a small village near Lucca in Tuscany.

SIMONA

This romantic pot materialized in the head of Steffen Berg as he strolled through flea markets in Montmartre. The aesthetics of our sweet Parisienne are reminiscent of the classic French homes and gardens of the 19th century. Today, our petit 'pot de fleur' is gently shaped by the hands of our Tuscan potters.

HELENA

The Helena Pot is inspired by Roberto Rosso's ancient Greek designs, which were popular throughout the 1800s. Steffen Berg was fascinated by their distinctive scalloped rim and created the Helena Pot to acquire the soft yet classic look.

ELIZABETH

The Elizabeth Pot has been created by Bergs Potter as a tribute to all women – everyday queens – who sail into headwinds with pride, grace, and strength. Gothic arches adorn its sides and form a bold crown when the pot is turned upside down.

JULIE

The Julie Pot was originally created by designer Ninetta Mariani in Milan, based on the belief that true perfection is only achieved when there is nothing left to take away. This was back in 1960, but even today we can only agree. In this simple yet charming pot, your plant will always be at the centre of attention. Less is more.

EMILIA

Emilia is Berg's interpretation of the classic rope-edge pot, inspired by the Roman Empire. From the 1800s, this type of pot has been produced in the Emilia-Romagna region of Tuscany, where our own potters now craft Emilia using time-honoured techniques.

FLORA

We honour botanical craftsmanship with the Flora pot. This pot and its flourishing plants will create a natural and heartwarming atmosphere. Her design dates back to the 1800s, and we sculpted her with all our plant knowledge and love. Flora's simple design highlights her contents and will appeal to the keen botanists.

Misty magnifies whichever flowers or branches she holds, and it has no drain hole. Her silhouette of a youthful peony crown makes her a flower in her own right. The smooth yet coarse surface reflects the natural light magically – and makes Misty a profound favourite to many.

POT FEET

It is essential to have pot feet for proper drainage of any pot placed outdoors, enabling any excess water to leave the container by way of the hole at the bottom. This also keeps any insects from harming the roots of the plant when it is raised a bit from the ground.

We design pot feet that complement the appearance of all of our large outdoor pots.
