made in Denmark
designed by Dennis Marquart

OXDENMARO

We are proud to introduce a new collection of porcelain tables and lamps.

The lamps are made in porcelain with a thickness of only 3mm. When switched on, the material transforms the light into a pleasant and delicate light.

The tables, also made in porcelain, have a high gloss semitransparent glaze, which gives the surface a beautiful depth. The base is made in steel with a thickness of only 4 mm, very strong but with a light expression.

MEET PARTNER AND DESIGNER IN OXDENMARQ, DENNIS MARQUART:

When we set out back in 2003, our goal was to produce reasonably priced furniture from exclusive materials like vegetable tanned saddle leather. Making affordable furniture is a core value we still pursue in everything we do.

Back in the Sixties, and unlike today, a lot of the now famous Danish Design products, furniture and other products, were affordable for the middle class. That is sadly no longer the case, but at OXDENMARQ we strive hard to make affordable furniture from exclusive materials.

- The leather gave us our name OX. Later on, we have added marble and other materials always building on my own background as a craftsman. Craftsmanship is key for us in everything we do.

Before finishing his design studies at the Copenhagen Design University, Dennis Marquart did a Blacksmith education. This background is extremely useful when developing and designing products.

- I like to keep my designs simple and to let the materials do the talking. When we develop new products, I almost always do the proto types myself because then I can see how the materials can work together with my design ideas.

As one of the few Danish Furniture producers, OXDENMARQ preserves a large part of their production in Denmark.

- As a family man, it is extremely cool to have pieces at home – often old first edition pieces - where the patina reflects the growing up of our children.

Many OX products are shaped around marble or vegetable tanned saddle leather. Stone and leather are materials that will and should get marks over time. But they will also age with a very special beauty. When you learn to appreciate the beauty of maturity and of time passing, you have learned to appreciate patina the way it should be appreciated.

MATERIALS & MAINTENANCE

OX LEATHER

OX leather, the backbone of many of our products, is mainly produced from Spanish cattle. All our leather is 100 % vegetable tanned and the surface of the leather is not modified. For most products, leather with a thickness of at least 3 mm is used. For the Rama and September chairs, the leather will normally be minimum 4 mm.

Since Spanish cattle typically spend most of their lifetime in the field as opposed to in the stables Nature will leave marks such as insect bites and scars. These marks reflect a Natural product.

CARING FOR OX LEATHER

If you want your leather to remain soft and have a longer life and fewer blemishes, we recommend ongoing caretaking with Leather grease.

MARBLE

Green Indio, White Carrara, Brown Emperador, Black Marquina, Grey Marble and Rustic Slate are the six high-quality stones currently used in our designs. The stones come from India, Italy and Spain and are elaborated in Spain.

CARING FOR MARBLE

Marble is a limestone and it does not tolerate any kind of acid. To protect the marble surface against grease and dirt, we recommend to protect the surface before putting it to use. All marble plates are given a protective treatment before being sent to clients.

For ongoing caretaking of polished marble, acid free wax or white Vaseline oil is recommended.

For ongoing caretaking of honed (mat) marble table, we recommend cleaning it with a neutral soap.

DO NOT use marble oil for honed (mat) marble.
